

A Vision of Hollywood in West Oahu With International Movie Producer Chris Lee

Imagine the West Oahu Plain being transformed into a film production and creative media center, abounding with businesses that produce high tech computer generated special effects for movies that are being made around the world. Imagine a new film production studio and a thriving hotel and restaurant industry to support the trade. Imagine students from Makaha to Ewa and beyond being able to continue their passion for the visual arts at the UH West Oahu campus. Imagine hundreds of high paying, high quality jobs in West Oahu for those who are born and bred in Hawaii, including video game production, computer animation and digital media. These are just a part of the vision of Chris Lee, international motion picture producer who visualizes West Oahu as one day being the creative media hub of the Pacific Rim.

With a long string of credits to his name, Mr. Lee has served in various capacities in the motion picture, television, and video industries, including President of Production at TriStar Pictures and Columbia Pictures, where he oversaw such Academy Award-winning films as Jerry Maguire, Philadelphia, and As Good As It Gets. He executive produced Superman Returns for Warner Brothers and Valkyrie for United Artists, and raised production funding for Batman Begins, Superman Returns, 300, and The Dark Knight. He also worked on numerous other hits such as My Best Friend's Wedding, Legends of the Fall, The Fisher King, The Mask of Zorro, Godzilla, and The Patriot, many music videos and more! Mr. Lee grew up in Honolulu, Hawaii, and recently founded the University of Hawaii Academy for Creative Media.
