4th Hawai'i Land Use Law

JANUARY 15 & 16, 2009

◆ ALA MOANA HOTEL

◆ HONOLULU, HI

Don't Miss This Conference!

The Hawai'i system of land use is complex and private land use is highly regulated. Attorneys and legal staff, planners, government officials, land owners and developers need to understand the complex federal, state and local requirements and procedures.

An expert faculty of land use practitioners, planners and regulators will explain the latest issues in land use law as it affects all Hawaiians. This program will give you the tools you need to fully participate in the Hawai'i land use system.

THE SEMINAR GROUP ~ FACULTY

Hawai'i Land Use Law

Prof. David L. Callies, FAICP, ACREL, Program Co-Chair, of the William S. Richardson School of Law came to the School in 1978, following a decade of adjunct teaching and private practice where he counseled local, state, and national government agencies in land use management and control, transportation policy, and intergovernmental relations.

Benjamin A. Kudo, PhD, Program Co-Chair, is a founding principal of Imanaka Kudo & Fujimoto, and leads the firm's Land Use, Administrative and Environmental Law section. He also heads up the Pacific-Asia business practice for the firm. He was previously an adjunct professor of law at the William S. Richardson School of Law.

Jay J. Levin, Keynote Speaker, a partner with the Atlanta, Georgia office of Powell Goldstein LLP, is the leader of the firm's Real Estate Finance & Development services group. His practice encompasses commercial real estate finance and development, commercial leasing, project finance, FHA-insured mortgage lending and construction contract matters.

Prof. Denise E. Antolini, an Associate Professor and Director of the Environmental Law program at the William S. Richardson School of Law, chairs the school's building committee. Her courses include torts, environmental law, environmental litigation, natural resources law, and legal writing.

David Arakawa is the Executive Director of the Land Use Research Foundation of Hawai'i, which works on behalf of landowners and developers, advancing the interests of the development community in land use laws and regulations. Prior to that, he was corporation counsel for the City and County of Honolulu for eight years.

Patricia E. Billington, Assistant District Counsel for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in the Honolulu District, is also primary legal counsel for the Department of the Army permit and civil works programs in Hawai'i, American Samoa, Guam, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

Dawn Naomi S. Chang is a principal with Ku'iwalu, a consulting company that builds community support for economic development projects. She is an expert on land issues and regulatory requirements and served 14 years as Deputy Attorney General and counsel to various state boards and commissions.

Anthony J.H. Ching is the Executive Director of the Hawai'i Community Development Authority, a position he assumed in January, 2008. He has considerable experience in planning and land use, and has worked as an administrator in state agencies for more than 25 years.

Prof. Carl C. Christensen holds an appointment as Visiting Assistant Professor of Law at the William S. Richardson School of Law, University of Hawai'i, where he presently teaches Indian Law. Prior to accepting his current position, he served as Senior Counsel to the U.S. Senate Committee on Indian Affairs.

Christopher J. Cole, a partner with Carlsmith Ball LLP, concentrates in the area of civil litigation, with an emphasis in labor and employment law, real estate litigation, environmental litigation, and complex commercial litigation.

Orlando R. "Dan" Davidson is Executive Officer of Hawai'i's Land Use Commission, a position he assumed in May, 2008. He was previously executive director of the Hawai'i Housing Finance and Development Corporation and has also served as executive director of the Land Use Research Foundation.

Madelyn D'Enbeau is an attorney with the Department of the Corporation Counsel, County of Maui, State of Hawai'i.

James K. Mee, a partner at Ashford & Wriston LLP, has practiced with the firm since 1982. He focuses his practice on real estate transactions, property rights litigation, land use, estates and trusts, Hawaiian rights, and appeals, and has served as the landowner representative to the Hawai'i State Leasehold Forum.

William K. Meheula, a partner with Winer Meheula & Devens LLP, focuses his practice on civil litigation involving legal malpractice, medical malpractice, trust & estates, real estate, insurance and other types of complex commercial litigation for either side.

David K. Tanoue, Deputy Director of the Department of Planning and Permitting, City and County of Honolulu, was previously a senior deputy attorney with the Department of Corporation Counsel.

Robert H. Thomas, a Director with Damon Key Leong Kupchak Hastert, focuses on issues involving appeals, regulatory takings, eminent domain, water rights, land use (zoning and planning), shoreline issues, navigational servitudes, and voting rights. He is listed in The Best Lawyers in America.
